

The figure displays a scatter plot with four distinct vertical columns of data points. The first column (leftmost) contains a large, dense cluster of points centered vertically. The second column also shows a cluster, though it is less dense than the first. The third and fourth columns (rightmost) have points that are more sparsely distributed, with some points appearing at the top and bottom of the plot area. All points are represented by small blue dots.

Time